

Choose Your Ceremony

Recommitment

- renewing one's love

Home/Office Blessings

- preparing the space to welcome the new

Namings/Christenings

- celebrating the divine spirit within your child

Living Legacies

- acknowledging the meaning of someone's life

Divorce

- celebrating gifts given and received, endings and new beginnings

Croning (Elderhood)

- marking the age of the sage in women

Release and Re Vision

- setting the course for new adventures

Nadene Rogers is an ordained minister with the Centers for Spiritual Living, serving since 1999 as an officiant, celebrant, speaker, teacher and counsellor. Comfortable in offering either religious, interfaith or spiritual ceremonies, Nadene is known for her capacity to capture the values, vision and intention of those she serves when designing her wording, content and format for each ceremony.

Nadene's credo is that HumanityKnows and that Love is all there is. Her life's purpose and pleasure is found within weaving these two truths together in service and support of others revealing their highest and best selves.

Contact Info:

LifeCeremonies.ca

403.701.0754

revnadene@telus.net

Life Ceremonies

Welcome to the celebration and honoring of Love, Life and our Soul's journey.

LifeCeremonies.ca

Our Ceremonies and very personal ensuring the reflection of your values, beliefs, sense of purpose, character traits and your personality.

Whether you are wanting to celebrate and honor a beginning, a midway point or an end in the journey of your life or the life of a loved one, ceremony and ritual help to seed conscious intention and awareness and always bring us home into the harmony of our true natural selves and ways of being.

Profound, sensitive yet sophisticated writings will capture the essence of where you are in the next step of life just as Nadene's spontaneous and inclusive nature will embrace your family and friends so that everyone present becomes an integral part of the ceremony.

The Personal Value in Ceremony and Ritual:

In much of our lives we are so forward thinking and accomplishment driven that those precious simple moments in our own evolution or those challenging times are overlooked or avoided. In this way of being, we can miss our opportunities to keep present in our lives - connected with our needs spiritually, mentally, emotionally and physically.

Ceremonies and rituals serve to open and align us in body mind and spirit.

Also, if you are having challenges releasing pain or moving forward in life, ritual and ceremony serves as an active alchemist, neutralizing or dissolving fear, negative positioning or any resistance you are experiencing that is keeping you from your good.

Sit a moment, think and ask yourself this question: "Do I honor myself, what I am up to, where I have been and where I am going...do I hold sacred the process of my soul's evolution and nourish myself as who I am and where I am in life right now?" And see what comes up.

This just may be a time to embrace change and make a commitment to a more fully expressed you. Whether you are getting married or divorced, meeting the end of your life as you know it; moving through your rite of passage, or celebrating the release and revisioning of your future, it is a cause for celebration! Supporting one's own self-discovery and evolution is something that western civilization is not well versed in, save the few traditional markers in life, but truly as we grow and change our perspectives on what is possible in life by means of us, we impact the perspective of the world around us. May we embrace our humanity and honor our journey.

The Community Value in Ceremony and Ritual:

At any given ceremony, especially ones like weddings and memorials where larger groups tend to gather, has been noted as the common experience of participants that creativity, sacredness, and joy awoken within them, leaving them feeling both grounded and more alive as part of the circle of life.

On a more subtle level, healing can occur as individuals are expanding and shifting their perspectives while experiencing a connection with their own hearts and the hearts of others. A releasing feeling of Oneness is also a primary take away with the invitation to reveal more of themselves authentically through the act of giving and receiving.

Specializing in customized non-religious, spiritual ceremonies

Weddings

The love you share together is unique unto itself, so perhaps you might wish to create a ceremony that gives voice to your unique expression of life?

Have you thought about taking yourself back in time when Gods and Goddesses guided the mystical path of the people? Perhaps you are close to the earth and would like to incorporate the ritual gifts of native chants and drumming. Or maybe, in your ceremonial commitment, you strongly feel your lineage and wish to create the entire event honoring your ancestral heritage.

Celebration of Life Service

This is a time of profound and often painful reflection by hearts that have committed to honor and love.

Together, we will move forward to remember, honor, grieve and celebrate the magnificent Soul of your loved one.

I will create a sacred space where you and your family will be supported in the depth and privacy of your feelings. Tender and insightful writings will embrace your loved one's true spiritual essence and offer you a deeper understanding of yourself and your loss.

Your Ceremony will be presented with the reverence, respect, joy, and truth in which your relationship found its meaning.